The areas identified by Keith (highlighted below), don't fall within the zones identified in the maps provided in the same email. I'm not sure what their significance would be without further context.

- I've redrafted the SMEAC to take into consideration the new maps.
- It would have been easier to stay with three zones rather than 4 (it would simplify Command and assignments leaving them as West, Central and East areas of responsibility).
- This new SMEAC requires the team leads to share resources for the 4th zone. I'll leave it to those being deployed how they wish to divvy up resources and identify the team lead.
- Still require Trish's mission statement and identifying person to whom end of day stats are to be sent.

Let me know if you need more.

Sitting at Brookstreet with POU....I'm tasked with developing a plan for an arrest/tow operation. POU is the natural are to sit because my plan will revolve around what they can do...

Thanks Kevin,

Not sure what your day is like tomorrow, but would need your help in the morning to clean this up. There are 4 distinct areas that we will be deploying our resources into from the map attached. The idea is that we will pick up members from 10th and Leitrim, Huntmar and Greenbank and then bus them down to central where they would get their assignments. From there they would be bussed to the 4 different locations and begin their assignments. We would have busses in the immediate area that would be also used locations for officers to get warm.

I figure maybe a few hours to tighten this up is all we'd need. The dayshift members coming in would be assigned to the Demo/Traffic locations because those spots have not yet been filled. I suspect the early Afternoons might also be used to staff the demo. We'll probably see a more robust group at the late afternoon time slot, which would be deployed to the locations in this plan. This would actually give us time to work on this.

Thanks for helping on this.

Russell/Chris,

As always, all you have to do is ask, and Kevin is willing to help. I asked if he'd be able to assist in developing a plan for this weekend Neighborhood Enforcement Plan, he accepted. I'm hoping I can use him to wrap it up which should only take a few hours in the morning.

Thanks guys

Paul
